Case Study

Needs

A Karachi, Pakistan based, textile client needed several data flow charts for their several operations. They were unable to understand who the data was flowing from which direction. They were losing sales and were not focused on their operations.

They also needed an online portal to sell their digitization products and services online to the world.

Solutions

Intelisales suggested data flow charts for them. It helped them better understand how their data was flowing between several operations process. We created training, revenue collection, human resources, and existing and non-existing customer's sales.

For their online portal, Intelisales integrated .Net framework, VPS data server, web payment integration, SSL and Web Security installed and configured, and developed database.
